

Kier 2020 Vision - Adjudication Training

An important one day training workshop on the topic of adjudication was delivered by GVE director Steve Goodwin and well respected barrister and adjudicator Tony Bingham.

Kier is investing heavily in the development of their professional staff and this workshop is an example of how Kier senior managers can progress their knowledge and skills through being tutored by leading industry practitioners.

Steve Goodwin is a respected and well-known expert in dispute management and resolution in NEC3 contracts and has managed and been a part of numerous adjudications.

Tony Bingham is a renowned practicing barrister, arbitrator, adjudicator and mediator and has been appointed to well over 400 adjudication disputes. He is a member of numerous nomination panels.

The workshop covered an appraisal of legal aspects of adjudication, the key adjudication procedures and timings and valuable practitioner and adjudicator views on the whole process.

19 of Kier Group's senior commercial managers attended.

The feedback from the delegates was remarkable with 100% scoring the tutors' knowledge of the subject matter as "exceptional".

The feedback comments included:

"Great knowledge from presenters - the best ever"

"Real life working examples - really relevant"

"The information on NEC3 and references to the options within the contracts were most useful to me"

"The course was very informative with complicated procedures explained in a simple and straightforward manner"

"The course provided an overview of adjudication for which my previous knowledge was very little"
